I was once like chaff
Blowing in the wind
And I could not stand
Under the weight of sin

Oh my heart had grown so dry
Like withered leaves
I couldn't see to heaven
For all the trees

Then I heard your voice
Just like a whispering
And I made the choice
To be whole again

I dug my feet down deep
To anchor to the truth
And I found the coolest pool
Of newest youth

Chorus
I'll turn to your word
As you watch over me
Just like a tree
With its roots
Near a stream of water day and night I'll stay at your feet and you will keep me as an evergreen

I've walked in the ways of the wicked one
I've done all the things that a sinner's done
I sat on the high seat of mockery
Til you called out to me... evergreen
